Based on a codex (nos. 75) in the library of the University of Cagliari, attributed by some to the first half of the 14th century. This codex consists of the text of the Divine comedy, with marginal and interlinear notes partly in Italian, partly in Latin. These notes bear evidence of more than one scribe and are ascribed to the second half of the 14th and first half of the 15th century.

Carter, Landon. A letter to the Right Reverend father in God, the Lord B...-p of L...-n. 1760. (Card 2) Attributed to Carter on the authority of a statement in his "The rector detected," 1764, p. 11: "I thought myself obliged, in duty to my country (some years ago) to take notice of a most severe charge against the legislature in a letter from a late Bishop of London to the Board of trade, on the subject of the act of Assembly ... vulgarly called the Two-penny act."

The Bishop's letter which is quoted in the text. Interspersed with the writer's comments, is printed entire in W. S. Perry's Papers relating to the history of the church in Virginia, 1870, p. 461-463; also in the introduction (p. 11-14) to another reply which it called forth. Richard

Carter, Nicholas, pseud.

Under this pseudonym numerous detective stories were published, 1900-19... Most of them were written by Frederic Van Rensselaer Day (1865-1922). A few were by John Howell Coryell (d. 1904) who planned the series. Frederick William Davis also used the pseud., but his stories did not have "Nick Carter" for a hero. As the authorship is often difficult to determine, most of the titles are entered under the pseud., with added entry for the probable author. Of Publishers weekly, May 6, 1902, Rept. 6, 1924 and Aug. 2, 1924.

Three years travels throughout the interior parts of North-America, for more than five thousand miles, containing an account of the Great lakes, and all the lakes, islands and rivers, cataracts, mountains, minerals, soil and vegetable productions of the northwest regions of that vast continent; with a description of the birds, beasts, reptiles, insects, and fishes peculiar to the country. Together with a concise history of the genius, manners, and customs of the Indians inhabiting the lands that lie adjacent to the heads and to the westward of the great river Mississippi; and an appendix, describing the uncultivated parts of America, that are the most proper for forming settlements. By Captain Jonathan Carver ... Portsmouth, New Hampshire, Printed by Charles Peirce, for David West, 1794. xvi, vii, 49-492 p. 174<sup>m</sup>.
